

The Season of Hispanic and Latino Influence in the Kingdom!

Friday, November 14, 2014

Dear Worshipping Saints:

We are looking forward to a wonderful weekend here at the Global Spheres Center. Tonight we begin Convergencia Hispana, a gathering to see the glory of the Lord break forth from the Latino community in a new way. I will be ministering tonight on The Season of the Hispanic Influence! Everyone is welcome to attend, or join in by webcast tonight, tomorrow morning and afternoon.

On Sunday morning, we have a special guest ministering at our Celebration Service. Obii Pax-Harry is an amazing apostolic leader who is recognized for her cutting-edge prophetic ministry. With offices in both Nigeria and England, her intercessory heart for the nations will certainly find a release here – so come with an expectation to hear from the Lord in a fresh way.

A Time to Reorder Your Day!

Earlier this week, Elaine Priestly shared what the Lord had been speaking to her with 5:15 Movement and changes that we should expect to see each day when we surrender our schedule to the Lord. She had been reading an old copy of Reordering Your Day and came across a section which outlined our shift in expectations:

- Expect amazing turns of events in your life!
- Look at issues that have gone before you and expect a 180-degree turnaround!
- Decree that the enemy who has plundered you will be plundered!
- Decree that the power of loss breaks and you experience a reversal of fortune!
- Get ready to counteract “faith destroyers” that have held you in unbelief!
- Declare that the enemy will not succeed in any attempt to make your faith empty!
- Watch the strategies that have captured you and held you in hard labor break!

As you allow the Lord to order and reorder your day, we are declaring a new faith dimension is arising within you!

Receiving a New Wind of Strength! Jerusalem Replay Now Available!

I wanted to thank you again for praying for our trip to Israel last week. What we experienced was new and unique – with an aligning of sounds and generations, and a fresh release of the prophetic word of God. You can now watch the webcast replay on our website. Declare that we will give the Lord no rest till He establishes and makes Jerusalem a praise in the earth!

I asked Tobias Lyons to share his thoughts on this worship gathering. This was his first time to travel to Israel, and I asked him to be a part of the joint worship team:

“I told the Lord that this meeting was my Firstfruits to Him for this trip. Working with the team that Daniel and Amber put together was incredible. I watched the Lord sift through things in me and pull out characteristics that I know He is training. There is not as much ‘prophetic worship’ in Jerusalem, but the Lord began moving in me during our rehearsal time, and into the meeting itself, to help lead the band in a way that would allow the prophetic voice to move with the worship.

“Judah goes first and it was important to me to help usher Holy Spirit in, in a way that would allow the prophetic voice to flow correctly. I really was blessed by the heart of all those on the team. There was such a humility and openness to receive direction from each other. It was cool watching the Lord bring together two teams and so smoothly blend them into one.

“The result of that meeting, the words that came forth, is a testament and sign of what the Lord is doing in the body and specifically in the land of Israel. He brought the word of the prophet, the word of Judah, and the word of those called to Israel together to declare in a way that they have not seen before. I do not fully understand the significance of everything He did, but I know that the Lord is birthing a movement there that we are helping to create.”

Shemitah is Preparation for 2016

Ann Collier has been aligned with this ministry for many years. She has been studying the significance of this year, and how it pertains to the changes ahead. She recently shared the following with me:

God made an amazing connection between the significance of this year, and His prophecies about 2016. Chuck has been saying repeatedly, “In 2016, everything changes”. There are several aspects of this: the urgency, the hammering of the point by Holy Spirit, and the stark vagueness of this word. Instead of telling God I don’t get it, I said, “Lord, what am I to do with this?” It is obvious that God sends a word when He wants to draw our attention to something we would otherwise breeze right by without noticing. It is also obvious that the intent of prophetic words is to get our full participation in what He is going to do in the future. To watch over our Kingdom future, we must watch over the prophetic words and see how God activates them where we are. A prophetic word cannot possibly contain all of the instruction to every Christian who hears it. It is a starting point for each of us to find God’s redemptive path with the word.

During first fruits gathering for the month of Cheshvan, part of the teaching was on the flood of Noah’s time. The flood started in Cheshvan and the waters subsided in Cheshvan. As Robert Heidler began to describe the scientific discoveries of the large asteroid impacting earth, in the ocean, and its resulting displacement and flood of waters, God began to overlay the prophecy about 2016. He showed me that there is no way that anyone would have suspected anything remotely like what God did in the flood. Indeed, it was a “never before and never again” event. God emphasized, “Lean not on your own understanding.” God did not choose to try to explain everything that was going to happen and how, He just told Noah to build an ark. God gave him specific instructions to prepare what would stay afloat when everything else was going down and drowning. He told Noah how to construct it, who and what to bring into the ark, and the timing.

Because Noah followed what God said, which by the way went beyond his understanding, there was an ark prepared so that God could shut the door and launch them into the future. So the lessons of this month are to hear God, trust in Him with all your heart, make the preparations that He says to make, then know He will get you to the next place.

Now to shift the perspective from this month to this year, this is a year of rest. It is the shemithah year, where Israel does not plow or harvest, but lets the land rest. Since I am not growing crops, I kept asking the Lord what this means for me, here and now. As I began to follow the revelatory path of “rest,” I found that rest is trusting Him fully, so that we are no longer relying on our own understanding, but on His wisdom. Fully trusting Him is the number one preparation for anything that comes, especially the unexpected.

God began to drop a plumb line of rest into my spirit, and to make me aware of how I was drawn out of that place of rest. The first major clash was with my own understanding. I wanted to leave the path of full trust in God because of an opportunity that “made perfect sense” to me. It was even backed up with wisdom I had gained from experience, insights from “experts,” and a personal prophetic word (misinterpreted). This is the year to discern the difference between low-level understanding, and God’s wisdom that we enter by trusting Him and looking to Him in every situation.

But He is showing me a NOW application of this. He told that this shemithah is the most significant in history. Why? Someone asked me, “How do we come out of ungodly structures? Don’t we have to live in the world, and operate in these?” God is showing me that this shemithah is the window of opportunity for us to cease operating in the present structures on autopilot, thinking they will continue as they are, and thinking that we have to continue to operate that way in our society. This is the year to come into His council in glory and get the plans for His structures that are life giving and do not shake. The biggest point I received from the Apostolic Centers Arising was that God is going to shake down demonic structures and replace them with prophetically-driven apostolic models (prototypes, microcosms). When I heard that, I ran to God because I realized we have to be ready to step in to form God’s structures whenever structures shake down. This year is a year to rest in many ways, but that is so that we provide God opportunity to give us plans and preparations for the future He has for us.

Blessings,
Chuck D. Pierce
