

Celebrating In and Out of Season*, by Pam Pierce Begin the Year with Glory---Come Celebrate with us on December 31!

Dear Seeking Saints:

With Thanksgiving past and Hanukkah and Christmas approaching, I asked my wife to write something. I said, "Share with us your most memorable holiday." Here is what she wrote:

Celebrating In and Out of Season

By Pamela J. Pierce

The year 1968 was a tumultuous one. It was the year of the Tet Offensive and the My Lai Massacre in Vietnam. It was the year in which Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy were murdered. It was the year the USSR invaded Czechoslovakia and Richard M. Nixon was elected president of the United States.

That year was significant to my family for a different reason. With increased military activity in Vietnam, my adopted father, Chief Master Sergeant Clint Hughes, was sent to Korat Air Force Base in Thailand. That left my adopted mother, Betty, at home with four children in New Hampshire. And that meant my mother and I had to call a truce for a while.

When my sister, Paula, and I first went to live with our Aunt Betty and Uncle Clint in 1965, it was supposed to be a temporary solution. Paula and I had been sent to live with relatives before when our mother was institutionalized for alcoholism and mental illness. This time, however, we knew it was different. This time, our father, a high-functioning alcoholic, sent us all the way to New Hampshire to live with people we had only met once or twice before in our young lives.

At first, everything seemed to be working out just fine. I had a room of my own overlooking the White Mountains. The farm on which we lived was a paradise of old-growth forests, pastures, rocky outcroppings and clear, cold streams. After years of living in suburban Los Angeles and Houston, I jumped right into country life with exuberance.

The problems began when I had to do what I was told whether I liked it or not. When Uncle Clint was at the air base in Portsmouth, I rebelled against everything Aunt Betty asked of me. Finally, out of sheer desperation, Aunt Betty told my uncle that they would have to put me into foster care, but Paula—my sweet, well-behaved sister—could stay.

That is when Uncle Clint stepped in and rescued me. Instead of sending me away to live with strangers, my uncle said, "No, just let me take over with Pam, and we'll see what happens." And so, I entered boot camp with my Air Force sergeant uncle in the winter of 1965. It was the best thing that could have happened to me. Over the next two years, my uncle took an unruly, undisciplined, red-haired brat and trained her to be a useful member of the family. He taught me to make biscuits, to take care of livestock, to respect those in authority over me, and to serve others. He showed me how being a useful person with a purpose can change everything.

In the spring of 1966, my natural father died and my mother relinquished her parental rights to my aunt and uncle. Paula and I were adopted and had our last name changed from Rolley to Hughes. There was no more talk of sending me to foster care after that!

When my dad was about to leave for Thailand early in 1968, he pulled me aside for a private conversation.

"I'm counting on you, Pam, to take care of your mother while I'm gone," he said solemnly. "You'll need to make the coffee and start the biscuits every morning before she gets up."

"Yes, sir," I nodded.

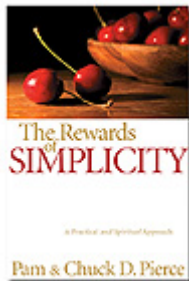

"And I don't want you arguing with her," he continued. "Just do what she asks, and it will be all right. This is going to be hard on her, you know."

My dad's absence was hard on all of us. As Thanksgiving approached, however, we received good news from Southeast Asia: Dad was coming home for a short leave in November before returning to Korat to finish out the year. We had hoped for more time, but we decided to make the best of it.

That was the year we celebrated Christmas at Thanksgiving. My sister, two brothers and I took a sled down into the woods behind the house, cut down a young fir tree, and hauled it up to the house through the snow. That evening, we decorated our Thanksgiving tree with lights and ornaments. After dinner on Thursday, we gathered around the piano to sing Christmas carols. We gave our Dad his Christmas gifts and celebrated as though it was really December 25. The next day, he had to leave for Thailand.

There are times when we have to celebrate according to God's timetable. When that happens, we have to be willing to set aside our own agenda and submit to the Father's plan. His timing is perfect, and He understands the value of celebration in a way that we barely comprehend. His calendar is always right.

The Rewards of Simplicity by Chuck D. and Pam Pierce

God has given us this book as a gift in a world of conflict, change and uncertainty! Pam Pierce's ability to communicate faith in a simple, clear way is amazing. The Rewards of Simplicity has the best of both worlds; Pam communicates faith and I explain the warfare we go through internally in dealing with all of our issues. This book will give you practical ways to "bottom line" your life. Every business person should read this book! There are also many new insights concerning how the enemy uses our anxiety in an attempt to rule our lives and stop our destiny. The Rewards of Simplicity is one of the key books to read going into this season! Special: $10 (regularly $13)

Join us Saturday Night for our Firstfruits Celebration for Tevet!

Make plans to join us at 7:00 PM on Saturday night for our Rosh Chodesh Celebration for the Hebraic month of Tevet. This will be a time when we celebrate Hanukkah and our "oil" not running out! Tevet is the month that marks the end of the Hanukkah, a time for our faith to be stirred. Hanukkah is the Hebrew word for "dedication", so we will be declaring that the LIGHT of the Lord will help us see clearly. Tevet is also the month of AYIN. In this 10 year ayin season, we want to pay particular attention to our vision in the month associated with vision and looking again. There is no registration needed to join us, in person or by webcast. If you are not able to join us, we will offer a webcast replay through next Saturday night (December 11). This will be a free replay for everyone who is registered in Member Services. So if you have not already registered your contact information in Member Services, please take a minute to do so.

CENTER for ADVANCEMENT! New School Begins! Special Course on Saturday, Jan. 1!!!

Time for the New! Our Issachar, Judah, and Zebulun Schools have been wonderful. However, this year, the Lord said, "Teach what will help my people advance in crisis times!" The precursor of this new school was our course in November, "The Rewards of Simplicity!"

On Saturday, January 1, 2011, we will offer a special Center for Advancement course. We will be teaching on "May Your Land Rejoice: Understanding Your Relationship with Land and Place!" We will begin at 9 AM and meet that morning and afternoon, concluding by 5:00 PM. JUDAH GOES FIRST!!! The Judah School Teachings at Half Price – Order Now!

For all of you who feel like you are part of the Judah Tribe, the teachings below will help you move forward in your identity. Judah is the tribe that goes first. Judah was the apostolic leadership, warring tribe who knew how to operate with sound. The Judah School has helped us learn how to go first with praise! However, Judah represents far more than praise, and this was the apostolic, warring tribe which eventually birthed the Anointed One that we celebrate at this time of the year. Now through December 20, 2010, we are offering all of our Judah School classes at ½ price!!!! Each of these courses will greatly help and encourage you, and would make a great gift for friends or family members.

Here is a testimony we received regarding the importance of knowing your tribe!

Dear Chuck,

*After the weekend teaching on the tribes, I decided that on family birthdays each person would receive a print of that month. I purchased for myself and daughter-in-law the print of Benjamin. Her brother-in-law's birthday also was the following week, Nov 12. The day of his birthday Holy Spirit spoke and said give him your print. I am ready to position him and his family in my timing and release the blessing. I am ready to break the curse off the generations and I am starting with him.

*I obeyed gave him the print, released the blessing. I then laid hands on his wife...declared that her womb would open and her belly be filled with a child since this too was part of the blessing. (They have tried for 2 years to conceive.) Sunday she called me and said they are now expecting!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!Thank You Jesus.....thank you Chuck for positioning us in God's timing .

Have a FLAWLESS Day! Elaine P.

Let the Lion of Judah Roar was an incredible Kickoff for The Judah School was just amazing! On the opening night, Robert Heidler brought a foundational understanding of the people and tribe of Judah.
